

First announcement and call for abstracts

4th Garden Route Interface and Networking (GRIN) meeting
A symposium-style meeting for dialogue on, and advancement of, research and practice dealing with the interactions between people and nature, and with how those interactions affect the challenge of sustainability.

Date: 6-8 October 2020

Venue: Pine Lake Marina, Garden Route, South Africa

Aim: Providing a space for co-learning about the study and management of social-ecological systems and their complex interactions and feedbacks.

Deadline for submitting abstracts: 30 June 2020 - Both managers and scientists are invited to share their latest approaches, challenges, insights and findings.

More information and online registration

Also incorporating pre-GRIN Spring School for post-graduate/early career researchers interested in social-ecological systems research (provisionally from 30th September to 5th October 2020). Register interest at above link.

